MATT WALKER Head Coach

Matt Walker took the helm of the DePauw football program in June and became just the 11th DePauw head coach in the last 77 years.

A 1999 DePauw graduate, Walker also is the first DePauw alumnus in the last century to serve as head football coach at his alma mater.

Over the previous six seasons, Walker has been an assistant coach for the football program and has coached wide receivers and tight ends in addition to his running backs assignment in 2005. He will also coach the quarterbacks in 2006.

The Crawfordsville, Ind., native is also entering his eighth season as DePauw's head baseball coach where his teams have posted a 171-119 record making him the second winningest coach in school history. He led the 2001 Tigers to the Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference title and their first appearance in the NCAA tournament in 22 years.

His 2004 team won a school-record 28 games and the 20-5 squad broke that record with 29 victories. He joined the DePauw staff as an assistant baseball coach in the fall of 1999 and was named interim head baseball coach in mid-March, 2000.

Walker was a three-year member of the DePauw football team, earned a varsity letter during his senior season and was a starter at quarterback as well as a special teams player. During his three seasons, the Tigers posted a 24-6 record including a school-record tying nine wins in 1996 and an Indiana Collegiate Athletic Conference championship.

As a member of the DePauw baseball team, Walker set the single-season school record with 79 strikeouts in 1999 on the way to winning 10 games which stands as the second-highest season total by a DePauw pitcher. He earned three varsity letters and was an all-Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference first team selection as a senior.

Walker earned a master's degree from Indiana State University. He, his wife Jana and daughter, Kraly, reside in Greencastle.

ROBERT BOTTOMS President

Dr. Robert Bottoms has completed his second decade as President of DePauw University. A native of Birmingham, Alabama, Dr. Bottoms earned his bachelor degree at Birmingham-Southern College, a Bachelor of Divinity degree at Emory University, and his doctorate at Vanderbilt University. His career in higher education began when he was appointed Chaplain and Assistant to the President at Birmingham-Southern. He later moved to the Vanderbilt Divinity School as Assistant Dean and Assistant Professor of Church and Ministry. In 1978, DePauw University selected Dr. Bottoms as its Vice President for University Relations; he subsequently advanced to Executive Vice President of the University before being named President in 1986.

The University's chief officer immediately established three key goals for his administration--increasing campus diversity, improving science education, and advancing moral reflection--and in the intervening years the University has made significant strides on each. While diversification efforts are ongoing, DePauw's curriculum, faculty, staff, and student body are more geographically, socioeconomically, and racially diverse than at any time in its history.

Through Dr. Bottoms' leadership, DePauw has also made momentous advances in the sciences, including unique research/study opportunities provided by the University's recently established Nature Park. Located on the site of an abandoned quarry, the nearly 500-acre DePauw University Nature Park has opened new academic horizons for faculty and students in the fields of biology, geology, and geography, among others. The facility also offers opportunities for reflection and recreation for members of the University and neighboring communities.

To support efforts on behalf of moral reflection, the University announced in September 2005 the formation of the Janet Prindle Institute for Ethics. The Institute, which is currently under construction in the DePauw Nature Park, will help faculty and students integrate the study of ethical issues across the curriculum, focusing greater attention on the role ethics play in every individual's personal and professional life. The culmination of the President's lifelong studies of personal and public ethics, underscored by insights gained from such events as the April 2003 symposium, Political Education and the Modern University and the University's annual seminar, DePauw Discourse, the Prindle Institute will also serve as a resource for the national academic community.

President Bottoms has led two highly successful fund-raising endeavors, the most recent being the Campaign for DePauw: Leadership for a New Century, which culminated in April 2000 with gifts and commitments in excess of $374 million. This achievement was recognized by the Council for Advancement and Support of Education when Dr. Bottoms was named in 2000 a recipient of the CASE V Chief Executive Leadership Award. As a result of that record-setting effort, DePauw has hired additional faculty, constructed new state-of-the-art buildings, renovated existing structures, and gained recognition as a leading national liberal arts college.

He currently serves on the boards of the Posse

Foundation in New York City, the Seabury-Western Theological Seminary in Chicago, the Joyce Foundation in Chicago, and the Center for Leadership Development in Indianapolis. In addition, Dr. Bottoms has been a consultant to the Lilly Endowment, the Arthur Vining Davis Foundations and the Fund for Theological Education. The DePauw President has written articles and opinion pieces for The New York Times, The Indianapolis Star and the Chicago Tribune.

A professor of kinesiology at DePauw, Cotton received the Medora C. Adams Distinguished Professor Award in April, 2004.

Cotton begins his 38th season as head coach of the DePauw men's soccer program and his teams have compiled a 367-178-32 mark including .500 or better seasons each of the last 24 seasons. Additional success for Cotton's Tigers has come on the national level with eight appearances in the NCAA Division III Championship with the most recent trip coming in 2000 when the Tigers advanced to the second round. In Indiana Collegiate Athletic Conference play from 1989 through 1997, the Tigers dominated the competition by winning all 54 matches. Cotton earned the league's coach of the year honors each of those nine seasons.

A native of Newton, Mass., Cotton graduated from Springfield College where he captained the team that posted an undefeated season and captured Atlantic Coast and New England championships.

Cotton is recognized as a leader of soccer development in Indiana and has been selected state clinician by the National Soccer Coaches Association. Additionally, he has served on several NCAA soccer committees and recently chaired the championships selection process.

He and his wife, Narda, are the parents of Elizabeth and Page.
